

Aix-Marseille University (AMU)
a university with international ambitions as well as rooted in its territory

AMU, a public, scientific, cultural and professional institution was born on January 1, 2012. This is the outcome of the merger process carried out by the three universities of Aix-Marseille.

Presided over by Yvon Berland since January 3, 2012 AMU is today one of the youngest universities and yet the largest in France in number of students, staff and budget.

AMU is also the largest French-speaking university.

Education, guidance, employability, research and promotion of knowledge are the pillars of this multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary institution.

AMU offers a comprehensive, multidisciplinary education

- arts, literature, languages and social science
- law and political science
- economics and management
- health
- sciences and technology

Key figures

- 5 campuses
 - Aix-en-Provence
 - Marseille-Étoile
 - Marseille-Centre
 - Marseille-Timone
 - Marseille-Luminy
 - 54 academic sites
 - 8 000 faculty and staff
 - 110 national university degrees
 - 130 student associations
 - 12 doctoral schools
 - 4 000 doctoral students
- 19 faculties and schools
- 72 000 students including 10 000 international students
- 132 research structures - 1 Idex